

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An aspect of the present invention provides a semiconductor device that includes a first transistor including a source region, a drain region provided in the same device region as the source region, and a loop-shaped gate electrode region, and a second transistor sharing, with the first transistor, the loop-shaped gate electrode region and the source region or the drain region.

10